THE LOCAL NEWS FIELD.

WANTED, A MARKET HOUSE. Ellicott City is sadly in need of business. Farmers could more easily dispose of their marketing and our peohouseholds. Two market days each week would be sufficient. Our place also needs a city hall so built to be utilized for all purposes. The ground floor could be used as a market while one of the upper stories could be made into a public assembly room and other rooms could be made for use of the City Council, Fire Company, &c. If private enterprise will not take hold of it let the city build it. The financial condition of the city is such as to justify the undertaking through the aid of one of our building associations. The structure would cost probably about $10,000; let it cost $12,000 if necessary. The rents accruing from the stalls and the assembly room would probably pay a fair interest on the investment. The world is moving all around us; why should Ellicott stand still when feasible projects are within our reach? Since the above was written, Mr. H. D. Dunkel, Mayor of the city, has called our attention to section 15, of our city charter, which reads follows: "And be it enacted, that the Mavor and City Council may, if in their judgment the interest of the city shall so require, provide by ordinance for the erection of all such buildings as shall be by them deemed necessary for city markets, and that they shall have full power, by ordinance, to establish, regulate and control such said market or markets, and shall provide by ordinance such rules and regulations in regard to tending of marketing within the limits of said corporation as they may deem proper.

The B. and O. and Its Policy.

The patrons of the B. and O., east of in this place as well, for two additional trains between here and Baltimore with a rate to meet the rate charged by the electric line. The B. and O. seems to be standing in the way of its own progress by refusing to meet the electric line rate. At least one-half of the passenger traffic would have been saved to the company had this competition been met. And considering the enormous increase of travel that has been stimulated by the low rate it is more than likely the B. and O. would not have suffered any loss by meeting the competition. Thousands of the residents of Baltimore have been attracted to this place since the advent of the electric line, looking over the ground, equally as successful in carrying passengers had the company reduced its rate. There is every reason to believe that Ellicoit City and vicinity is about to enter upon a new era of prosperity and so far this encouraging prospect has been entirely due to the electric line. Just why the B. & O. should stand aloof in the work of attempting to render prosperous a community so tributary to and intimately connected with its line, is incomprehensible to the common mind and exhibits a policy contrary to the usages of enterprising railroad lines diverging from large cities.

Home Mission Sessions. Seventy ladies, composing the Presbyterial Society for Home Missions, Presbytery of Baltimore, came out from Baltimore Thursday and held two interesting sessions in the Presbyteriau church here. They were entertained by the ladies of the church at the residence of Miss Rebecca Talbott where tea was served. The afternoon meeting was presided over by Mrs. Edward Beaver, of Baltimore, president of the society. The exercises were devotional which included a question hour, in charge of Mrs. Malone. In the evening an interesting address was delivered by Rev. Frank E. Williams, pastor of Boundary Avenue Church, followed by an earnest appeal to the young people in behalf of the work, by Miss Griffith.

Road Difficulty at Elkridge.

The county commissioners on the 5th inst. visited Elkridge, in the First district, their object being to arrange amicable adjustments with several residents whose property is said to encroach upon the public road passing through that village. The thoroughfare there leading from the Patansco river at the boundary line between Howard and Baltimore counties was to have been widened and improved by order of the county board, but, it is claimed, that the required width in some instances cannot be made unless an agreement can be effected with the owners of the adjacent property. The belief is expressed that the matter can be suitably arranged.

COOKSVILLE.

Cooksville, May 9.—As a father dread I to castigate Cooksville's authoritles. Weeks before the advent of the proper time for Spring fever, the mayor of our four cornered village became a martyr to that dread disease, and he sleepeth constantly even as the population of a neighboring hamlet. Whilst he slumbers cows, calves, horses jostle poor humanity from our sidewalks, and devour the green grass and the flowers in our pretty parkings, or carelessly tread them out of all resemblance to those of the city of Washington. Our parterres and terraces on either side of Main street or Mount Gregory avenue, are trampled over and ruined. Every dandellon has been destroyed "by the hoofs of the fierce in-

For what do we pay our mayor an exday. Even as the Democrats turned out | chism. the Republicans in Baltimore so will we Why did he neglect to water our principal thoroughfares? They were "just too horrid for anything" before the rains came. We didn't pay the rain to come and do his work for him. Here we were with all our Spring finery, bought and paid for, and afraid to show it because of the dust. Ride or drive or walk half a mile over our roads decked out in our "best bib and tucker," and it would be like unto last year's toggery and "not fit to be seen." All the polish in our store wouldn't keep our Sunday shoes in good order. Didn't we choose our mayor because he was always raving about "the beautiful," "the esthetic." Are old barrels, old crockery, rags, pieces of lamps beautiful on our sidewalks? Have we an esthetic hitching post in all the village? Is a slab with a hole in it beauti ful? Why doesn't the mayor suggest to our worthy storekeeper that he should have displayed in his windows the latest fashions? Is a window decorated with a young man busily engaged in writing, or distributing the mails, no matter how him, as attractive as a window full of dainloes our storekeeper hide in boxes, goods, laces, ribbons, hosiery, gloves, in-agreeable, popular or handsome we think ty lingerie artistically arranged? Why stead of delighting our eyes with them in the windows? Is a horse collar beautiful? No, but a lace col ar is. Is there anything lovely in brooms, buckets, shovels, ploughs? When did we see displayed a genuine pink C. O. D. corset? Did any one ever see a dream of a mouchoi there, so soft and beautiful as to make one desire a cold in the head? We see plenty of horse gear, but no head gear for our wives and daughters. Are great tubs and washing boards beautiful?

trow not. Is our blacksmith shop "a thing of beauty and joy forever"? What sort of a picture doy ousuppose old wagons, buggies in all be shod, will make? Would any one dere it for the parlor? Has the apanese or other screens to hide all this unloveliness? Has he no influence with the Post Office Department that we may have esthetic mail carriers and wagons Artistic stick pins should be used to hold up the advertisements on the walls and doors of the store instead of unlovely solemnly ask if the store, warehouse and stable have been made beautiful by paint? The subject grows too painful. I'll no more of it. These be house-cleaning days, when our wives, our daughters, our sisters, our cousins and our aunts revel. When men roost on poles out of garret windows and live out the remembrance of the viands they ate in the days of yore, when houses smell of lime and other disinfectants, when men's books, papers, shoes and all their movables get displaced and are not found for months, when gossip is

COOKS WILL. LISBON.

Lisson, May 10.-A few days before the election in Baltimore City the Baltimore American made the assertion that the state election this fall, would be decided by the way Baltimore went.
